

ALESSANDRO PEPE

Profile

I am an English MA turned programmer! A life-long learner and a (mostly self-taught) front end web developer, I gained most of my programming knowledge from Treehouse, as well as picking the brains of fellow developer friends.

Experience

Treehouse Courses

Online, November 2017 - Present

Udacity Courses

Online, January 2018 - Present

Supplemental Experience

Freelance Copywriter

Self Employed, June 2015 - Present

Wrote copy in many formats and lengths. Industries in health, higher education, and luxury goods. Companies included Synergixx, Comcast, and Invisalign.

Copywriter

Burlington Stores, August 2016 - December 2016

Wrote engaging copy for fashion products of all types and styles. Worked with open ended SEO guidelines, exceeded quota by 100%. Devised meta tags for Google for traffic incentive to the website.

Graduate Advisor

Rutgers University, June 2015 - June 2016

Trained incoming and current students in class selection procedures. Practiced face to face sales of classes upon students in need of credits. Consulted for advising deans on potential class tracks for students.

Team Member

Target, August 2011 - December 2015

Worked three in-depth and titled positions concurrently, every day. Learned vital time-management and resource allocation techniques. Trained fellow team members on best practices and organization processes.

Who I Am

A dreamer, a writer, a thinker, and a developer. I have a never-ending goal to learn as many things as I can, and my thirst for knowledge is insatiable. I am a passionate person and a fast learner, eager to transition into a programming career.
